I Watch You - Irene Cao 2014-06-17

What do you do when your greatest temptation is a dangerously handsome and alluring man? Elena works as an art restorer in Venice, and is in the process of bringing an old fresco to light in a historic palazzo. Art is her world, along with her best friend, Gaia, and Filippo, an old pal who she thinks just might be her new love . . . until Leonardo comes along. A chef with a tempestuous spirit, Leonardo is in Venice to launch a new restaurant, and he pushes all of Elena's buttons-- good and bad. As Leonardo awakens Elena's senses, she faces the difficult yet exciting choice between the safety Filippo promises and the danger of Leonardo's embrace. I Watch You is part one of a bestselling erotic trilogy that proves Italians definitely do it better.

The Ulysses Butterfly La Farfalla di Ulisse - Virna Chessari 2020-10-26

A Nobel Prize to an old poet comforts us and challenges those who no longer believe in the noble art. We still need and want poems, which is why the author of this collection wrote them, because of a need and want. She writes to express the pain of the absence of a father never met, in a dialogue from afar with a father who had left before making himself known to her. And of the relationship with her mother, the expression of a filial and at once maternal love; the daughter needed her mother and now the mother needs her daughter's reciprocated love. In the text we find poems for loves dreamed, recalled places, and past memories to hold onto against oblivion. A long and convoluted path where some get lost in order to find their way back, looking for someone or something that can fill the void of an existence surrounded by a vexing loneliness, gladly and without fear. Un Nobel ad un'anziana poetessa ci conforta e smentisce chi non crede più nella nobile arte. C'è ancora bisogno e voglia di poesie e per questo l'autrice di questa raccolta ne scrive, per bisogno e voglia allo stesso tempo. Una scrittura per esprimere il dolore per l'assenza di un padre mai incontrato, un dialogo da lontano con chi è andato via prima di farsi conoscere. Poi il rapporto con la madre, l'espressione di un amore filiale e al contempo materno; di lei ha avuto bisogno e adesso il bisogno è ricambiato con un affetto circolare. Nel testo incontriamo poesie per amori sognati, luoghi rimembrati, ricordi sottolineati contro ogni oblio, un lungo e articolato percorso dove smarrirsi per poi ritrovarsi, cercando qualcuno e qualcosa che riempia il vuoto di un'esistenza avvolta da una molesta solitudine, restando liberamente soli e solamente liberi. Mario Azzolini Virna Chessari graduated from Palermo University in Classical Literature, studying Latin and Greek. She is an Italian and History teacher at a high school in Palermo, where she is in charge of communication and projects of innovative teaching like Avanguardie Educative-Indire. She is also a CLIL (Content and Language Integrated Learning) teacher. She has been published in newspapers, magazines and cultural websites. Poetry in particular is a recent adventure for her. Some of the poems in the collection have been published in Straylight Magazine and Blue Lake Review. She has found in English the right notes to express her inner world and her missing words. Virna Chessari, docente di Lettere Classiche e CLIL (Content and Language Integrated Learning) insegna Italiano e Storia in una scuola secondaria di Palermo dove è referente della comunicazione e di progetti di didattica innovativa come Avanguardie Educative-Indire. Suoi contributi sono stati pubblicati in giornali, riviste, siti e blog di divulgazione culturale. La Poesia, in particolare, è una recente avventura. Alcune poesie della raccolta sono state pubblicate nelle riviste americane "Straylight Magazine" e "Blue Lake Review". L'autrice ha trovato nell'Inglese la melodia per dare voce al suo mondo interiore, alle parole mancanti.

Race and Gender in the Western Music History Survey - Horace J. Maxile, Jr. 2022-05-23

Race and Gender in the Western Music History Survey: A Teacher's Guide provides concrete information and approaches that will help instructors include women and people of color in the typical music history survey course and the foundational music theory classes. This book provides a reconceptualization of the principles that shape the decisions instructors should make when crafting the syllabus. It offers new perspectives on canonical composers and pieces that take into account musical, cultural, and social contexts where women and people of color are present. Secondly, it suggests new topics of study and pieces by composers whose work fits into a more inclusive narrative of music history. A thematic approach parallels the traditional chronological sequencing in Western music history classes. Three themes include people and communities that suffer from various kinds of exclusion: Locales & Locations; Forms & Factions; Responses & Reception. Each theme is designed to uncover a different cultural facet that is often minimized in traditional music history classrooms but which, if explored, lead to topics in which other perspectives and people can be included organically in the curriculum, while not excluding canonical composers.

Under the Burnt Walls - Stefano Losi 2010-03-26

"Timeless. On the contrary, inside time. And beyond. It rains this light rain of words. Significant. Blunt. Stirring, most of all. / And then the images, evoked, drawn, painted. Strokes and shadows. Black. Intensity, liberty. And love. Thank you Stefano." Marco Mathieu, Writer and Journalist ("La Repubblica") - Milan (Italy) "Violent Dances Fade" (Libertarian Poetical Fragments) is a visual arts and poetry project born in Milan in 1996, further developed in London and currently active in New York. Violent Dances Fade intends to foreground different interpretative perspectives as an attempt to frame the terms of social debate. And the admission of the adoption of ethical assumptions becomes unavoidable, if the faced themes are liberty and love, essential constitutive personal element, but formidable tension in a political dimension. "Under the Burnt Walls" is a collection of thirty epigrams and paintings issued in 2010, with a foreword by Antonio Maria Costa.

Brief Homage to Pluto and Other Poems - Fabio Pusterla 2023-04-11

"Pusterla is a contemporary Swiss poet who writes in Italian. This volume is a selection from Pusterla's six most recent books of poetry, published in Italian. The poems create a solid sense of place-mountains, lakes, streams, villages, occasionally a city. They move from precise and delicate observations of creatures, plants, and atmosphere to harshly historical and sociological pieces, wounded by Italy's past and present. They find striking and unpredictable ways into their subjects, often ending on a surprising, crystallized image. And, in the series editors' words, "the translations compel throughout- through their cadence, pacing, assonance, and tactful alliteration-their texture and their touch. The effect of the whole-of the supple verse renderings and the prose poetry- is of lively variety in theme, point of view, and form, and Pusterla/Schutt in this manuscript emerges as an authentic, original, passionate albeit subtle voice."--

A Gemstone in the Rock - Donato Placido and Olga Matsyna 2012-05-30

Once Bukowski was asked: "Do you believe in God?" He replied: "No, I believe only in horses. I do not know why we always realize things when it is too late. I've also bet on horses for a period. But, differently from Bukowski whom I respect so much, I quit horses and bet on God. Really, I think it is for this faith that I found myself with my back against the wall. "Against the wall" was the first title I wanted to give to this book. There are a lot of people in the world: tramps, prisoners, all types of emarginated people who are alienated just because, in my opinion, they do not manage to keep pace with a cheering occidental cult of efficiency, to keep up with the rules for which the society, the system did not forgive them. But Christ said: "I came to the world for the ill, not for the sane". Thus, is it really true the last will be the first? Maybe, if, as far as I know, a probable God does not consider things the way people do. Anyway, what I have never understood is: there is a baby born from Gypsies and there is another one born from a rich American family. What is the fault of the first one whose destiny is immediately signed? A mystery! So, "A Gemstone in the Rock", in its essential message, is an invitation to bet on God as it is the only chance we have in our life. It is also an invitation to pray-to pray more often during the day. Even at work. But without putting the entertainment aside: it gives colours to our life. That's why the title is "A Gemstone in the Rock": life is nothing but a precious stone in the rock: you can observe it in its splendour but you cannot take it with your naked hands. As far as the emarginated people are concerned, let us help them bearing in mind that, differently from what the main part of respectable Catholics think, to help them is not at all a walk of pleasure. I say it with a poem: "How much pain I get for a kiss to a poor wretch!" "This book has got a particular: it is like a human being in the course of his life with it's high and low moments between faith and total loss of courage". P.S. As far as my poem "Now" ("Faith") is concerned, for a question of a dramaturgic effect I left the sequence of the passion events according to my poetic license". Have a good time reading! Sincerely, Donato Placido This book was born as a synthesis of our writings, our thoughts and vision of the world. I made Donato's acquaintance while he was focused on hypotheses of a staged version of a Pirandello's play. His poetry published and appreciated in Italy, inspired me. I proposed to him being published abroad. I read Donato's material thoroughly and put it in a sequence (I would rather say I had to cut it like a movie: his writings evoke movie-like images). This book owes to me its structure, order and some chapters: trilogy "Loneliness of Light" I wrote on the basis of apocryphal Gospels found in the Dead Sea in 2004, in particular, Judas' and Magdalene's Gospels. However, the dialogue between Judas and Magdalene (staged in 2006 in Moscow at an international festival of directing plays) and Magdalene's monologue are of pure intuition (or, if we prefer so, of artistic invention). Other book parts of which I am the author are: the dialogue "Puppets of freedom" inspired by "Danton's Death" by Georg Büchner, extracts from Disillusions (money, power, female love), extracts from Absence and silence ("The end of the world", "Silence, loneliness and . . ."), the whole chapter of "Encounter" (which is Donato's novel of the same name I put in a nutshell and in blank verse) and my poem on a true love, "Till the darkness". In a human life everyone passes from happiness to despair, from the idea of God dissolved in everything to the idea of his absence, one stakes on the material goods accumulation, on power, on love, even on the idea of freedom-but then one notices all these concepts are only illusions, just glimpses

Selection of Modern Italian Poetry in Translation - Roberta L. Payne 2004-07-15

Payne pays particular attention to poets of the fifties and sixties, futurists, and female poets. She notes that the futurists, who have rarely been translated, were particularly important as they were truly original, attempting to develop new notions of word, line, sound, and phrase. Such new notions make translating them particularly challenging. She also offers a large sampling from poets of the fifties and sixties, many of whom have won the Viareggio Prize. Poems by women in this volume reflect diverse schools and directions while maintaining a distinctly female voice.
